Dear Valued Practitioner

You are invited to participate in the research titled 'A national perspective on the enablers and barriers to CPD compliance'. This study has received full ethical approval from the Durban University of Technology and permission from the HPCSA.

Practitioners are reminded to check their HPCSA status online to ensure that they are CPD compliant. In event of non-compliance, practitioners are urged to take the required steps to become CPD compliant.

We thank you for your participation.

All the best

The Professional Board for Radiography and Clinical Technology

CPD Survey

Registered RCT practitioners are invited to participate in a survey on CPD compliance. The research team requests your expert input to document the challenges and barriers that you, as a practitioner, may be experiencing as you endeavour to become CPD compliant. Participation in this study is completely anonymous and voluntary. Read more

CPD Compliance

Healthcare practitioners registered under the ambit of the Professional Board for Radiography and Clinical Technology must demonstrate compliance to the CPD requirements, in order to renew their registration. The CPD programme describes the learning activities which healthcare practitioners undertake to further their development and enhance their practices. This includes activities such as courses, workshops, journal clubs and reviewing of articles.

The CPD programmes ensure that healthcare practitioners up-skill themselves throughout their career, adapt to an evolving workplace and keeps professional practice exciting as healthcare practitioners continually learn and remain abreast of new developments and best practice. Read more
